This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Introduction.

FUNERAL CERTIFICATES were taken pursuant to the "Orders to be obseruide and kept by the Officers of Armes made by the highe and mighty Prince Thomas, Duke of Norfolke, Erle Marischall of Englande, Año 1568, the xviijth day of July, yn the Tenth yere of the Reigne of Queene Elizabeth," wherein it is ordered that "everie Kinge of Armes, heraulde, or pursuivante that shall serve at any funerall . . . . . shall bringe into the librari or office of Armes a trewe and certaine Certificate vnder the hands of the executors and morners that shall be present at the said funerall conteyninge the daye of the deathe, the place of buriall of the person so deceased; and also to whom he or she married, what issewe they hade, what years they were of at the tyme of the sayd buriall, and to whom they were maried, to thentent that the sayd Certificate may be regestrede and so remayne as a perpetuall recorde in the sayd Office for ever."

The late Mr. Thomas William King, F.S.A., York Herald, writing of Funeral Certificates,[1] says that comparatively few of these documents are on record throughout the kingdom, and that of the Funeral Certificates of Peers, which were exclusively under the jurisdiction of Garter King of Arms, very few are preserved, as they seem seldom to have been recorded in the College of Arms. "There is no doubt, however," Mr. King continues, "that the Kings of Arms had, and did exercise, jurisdiction over the armorial ensigns used at funerals, whether the formal attendance at funeral solemnities was observed, or certificates of the state of the family of the defunct were taken, as many instances occur of the exercise of such jurisdiction, and are noticed in the college books."

The Funeral Certificates in the present volume (with the exception of four or five, which are engrossed on vellum and preserved in the Public Record Office, among the "Domestic State Papers") are taken from three volumes in the British Museum, viz., Lansdowne MS., 879; Harleian MS., 2041 and Harleian MS., 2180; and are either official copies of the certificates or the original documents signed by the relatives or executors of the deceased. The certificates included in this collection comprise the whole of the Cheshire and Lancashire Funeral Certificates contained in the above-named manuscripts, and extend from the year 1600 to the year 1678.

Prefixed to Lansdowne MS., 879, and Harleian MS., 2041, are documents, almost identical, signed by William Segar, Norroy King of Arms, 1st March, 1600–1, and Richard St. George, Norroy King of Arms, 20th May, 1606, appointing Randle Holme a Deputy Herald in the following form:—

The Regester Booke of Funeralls

The same manuscripts contain a few Lancashire and Welsh Funeral Certificates, some of which have been printed in "The Cheshire Sheaf," edited by Mr. Thomas Hughes, F.S.A., and others in "The Palatine Note Book," edited by Mr. J. E. Bailey, F.S.A., and in the "Miscellanea Genealogica et Heraldica," edited by Dr. Jackson Howard, F.S.A.

Mr. Hughes and Mr. Bailey have also given in their publications some of the Funeral Processions which appear in considerable numbers in Harleian MS., 2129. These "processions" possess very great interest, as they inform us of the names of the mourners and friends, and the order in which they walked at the funerals, showing how strictly the precedence at funeral ceremonies was invariably maintained. Three of the Funeral Processions from Harleian MS., 2129, are subjoined as examples:—

a Knight and a Knight Bar^tt^ hearse being 2 yards long 1 yard broad & 2 yards high meeting in the topp.

Following these drawings and directions Randle Holme gives rough sketches of hearses of the various degrees of Peers; among these are the subjoined instructions for making the hearse of a Viscount, which accompany the cut given on the opposite page:—

A viscounts Hearse being 2 yards and halfe long 1 yard & quarter broad & 2 yards & halfe high 4 square baners for 4 corners a long baner for the top silke pencills about 1 foote apeece.

Veluett vallens with a deepe fringe for the bottome & a little fringe for the top. A veluet cushion to ly on the table within the hearse & a crowne on it.

After all this pomp and ostentation there naturally came a day of reckoning with Mr. Randle Holme, who seems to have profitably combined the occupations of Herald and Undertaker; and his notes give us an insight into the cost of the penoncels, banners, imitation helmets, swords, gauntlets, &c., which were usually displayed at funerals. There are many items of funeral charges in Harl. MS. 2129, and it is difficult to make a selection, for almost all of them possess some quaint or historical interest. Trumpet banners cost 6s. 8d.;

a lance banner, 5s.; little shields for the horses' heads, 1s. each; little shields for the valance of the hearse, 6d. each. We also find "2 ground saletts for ye cookes, £1"; "King of Arms ffee, £5"; "painting two chambers [black], £3"; "bla[c]king the mour[n]ing r[o]ome Chimney table [i.e., mantel-piece] and stand, 13s. 4d."; "horse hire for 9 dayes a peece, 2 horses, £1 : 7 : 0." Again, we find that a "Hatchment in oyle" cost £3; "one great viscount crowne for topp of the hearse cutt in pasteboard and gilt" cost 6s. 8d.; "one great banner of honnor on Taffaty Sarcnett, wth all his quarterings in mettall and fringed, £10"; and "litle viscount crownes in pastboard, each, 1s."; "pencells on buckrome in mettall and fringed, w^th^ the yeare of our lord and crestes, &c., 1s." These "pencells" were for the poor to carry, and the hire for two horses for six days, in one instance, cost only 20s.

The money spent on the appointments of funerals varied considerably, but an idea of the usual amounts expended may be obtained from the following memoranda of the charges made for the funerals of three local baronets:—

FOR SR. GEO. WARB'TON

Penon, Standart, coate, sword, escocheon in compt^mt^ for gate and one for pulpit, four dozen escocheons and three—agreed for £18.

This was Sir George Warburton, of Arley, who was created a Baronet in 1660, and died in 1676. The next bill is not only interesting as showing a comparison of Randle Holme's prices with those of a Manchester opponent in business, but also as being apparently the account for the "atchievements hung up by Holme of Chester at the funeral of Sir Raphe Ashton, K^t^ and B^t^, 2 May, 1665," which Sir William Dugdale "pulled down" on the 9th April, 1667, having ridden over from Manchester to Middleton for that express purpose.[1]

The third bill, in Randle Holme's own handwriting, has at the foot of it a grateful though somewhat subservient hint as to an expected deduction from the amounts charged in the account.

many other notes in the volume are well worth putting on permanent record in print.

Among all these memoranda there does not appear the cost for the figure of wax or other material of the deceased person, which was sometimes used at funeral obsequies when they were held, as was not unfrequently the case, after the body had been consigned to earth. Such a figure, "curiously made to the life, accordinge to the best skill of the artist in that employed, viz., Mr. Symons," . . . . "there being a body of wood carved by M[r] Phellips," &c., was used at the lying in state of Oliver Cromwell, whose very unrepublican funeral cost the modest sum of £28,000. (Noble's "House of Cromwell.")

From the earliest times, however, we find much splendour and display used at the funerals of great persons. The Egyptian funeral was a most imposing ceremony of greater or lesser pomp, according to the status of the family of the deceased, or the amount of money which the relatives were prepared to pay. In Wilkinson's "Ancient Egyptians,"

vol. iii. plate 83, page 444, there is a representation of the funeral of a very important Egyptian who lived about B.C. 1625, and from this early period down to our own times the idea of paying respect to the dead bodies of great persons has held a prominent place. A good example of a magnificent modern funeral will be found in that of Lord Nelson, in January, 1806, "the greatest, most grand, and solemn that ever took place in England," where the banners, penons, penoncels, coat-of-arms, sword, helmet, gauntlets, spurs, &c., were all used[1] exactly as they were used in performing the funeral rites of the Knights and gentlemen whose Funeral Certificates form the subject of the present volume.

The manuscripts referred to above, have been partly transcribed by the Editor, who intended them for his own use, and partly by Mr. J. EEDES, by whom the sheets have all been compared with the original documents before they were printed off, and this course, it is hoped, has ensured almost absolute accuracy. It ought, however, to be mentioned that the modern use of capital letters and modern punctuation have been adopted, whilst the spelling and abbreviations of the original have been rigorously preserved. The heading in Old English which precedes each certificate is added for convenience of reference.

The Editor very much regrets that want of time and delay in the completion of the transcripts of the MSS. have interfered to prevent his filling up many of the omissions which occur in the certificates and in the blazons of the arms: indeed, he has been compelled to avail himself of the friendly help of Mr. J. P. EARWAKER, in examining the proofs of the latter part of the volume, and in superintending the making of the Index.
